

JOHN SCOTT SAYS COLD WAR HAS THRUST NEW RESPONSIBILITIES ON U. S. PRESS

"Scott said 'I cannot emphasize enough the importance of the Psychological Strategy Board in planning and coordinating America's cold war. Political warfare, an activity in which until recently the United States was completely inexperienced, is now being pursued vigorously and intelligently by such able public servants as Gen. Walter Bedell Smith of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Brig. Gen. Robert McClure of the Pentagon.'"